THE LEGISLATURE.

Hunt's Gambling Bill, as Recommended by the Committee of the Whole, Passes.

NOW IN THE COUNCIL.

Both Houses Adjourn at Noon, Wearied with the Arduous Labors of the Week-Will Meet Monday Afternoon.

After a week's arduous labors both houses of the legislature adjourned yesterday at noon to meet again Monday afternoon. The house took up Hunt's gambling bill as reported by the committee of the whole and passed it without a dissenting vote. It has passed to the third reading in the council and will be passed Monday. Mr. Hunt, author of the bill, did not get to vote for it, as he was engaged on a case in the supreme court.

THE COUNCIL.

After the usual preliminary business t the council yesterday morning, Kennedy, from the enrolling committee, reported sage, as correctly enrolled.

Brown, from the judiciary committee, re ported council bill No. 3, concerning attachments in justices courts, with slight amendments and recommendation for passage as amended. The amendments were adopted and the bill placed on general orders.

Collins, from the printing committee, reported council bill No. 5 and council bill No. 8 as correctly printed. The first, defining the duties of county attorneys in divorce cases, was referred to the judiciary committee, and the other, Kennedy's electors before the large rectangle of the control of the co toral reform bill, was referred to the committee on elections.

No ladies were present on that solemn and eventful occasion, but as their presence graced the hall to-night there may be greater frivolity. It is true that St. Andrew might be deposed and St. Robert put in his place, but people would admit that Burns as a saint was not a success. Col. Botkin related an anecdote of the pilgrimage of the great preacher, Rev. Myron W. Reed to the old country. After having paid a compliment to that gentleman's ability and genius, the speaker said when ability and genius, the speaker said when Mr. Reed returned he told him that the principal revenue of the people of Dumfrieshire at the present day was the sale of relics of the immortal poet, the harsh theology of whose grandfathers almost persecuted by Co. Rotkin said he did not wish christianity in Burns' poems than there was in the ethics of John Knox. He paid a high tribute to the genius of Burns and quoted several beautiful passages from his remarks Clansman Crayon sang a song. The following letter was read, which excuted him. Col. Botkin said he did not wish to condone the offenses of Burns against the proprieties of life, but there was more christianity in Burns' poems than there

Col. Botkin spoke of the progress the Caledonian club had made since its foundation over one year ago. He was gratified to learn that it had excited some interest among the people who came to pay tribute to the genius of the one whose birth was celebrated. The celebration a year ago was an enjoyable occasion as was a liso the banquet given on St. Andrew's night. The latter, however, was a solemn and edifying occasion. The teachings of John Knox were expounded by such eminent theologians as Col. Sanders and myself. To show that the occasion was a very solemn one, he would assert that a very mild fluid brewed by Clansman Mc-Intosh was not touched by any one there. No ladies were present on that solemn and eventful occasion, but as their presence graced the hall to-night there may be

The performances of Little Turi during last year only go to strengthen the prediction that the time is not far off when Montana-bred horses will be the kings and queens of the turf. The prediction is slowing but surely being verified, and the blue grass state will soon have to look after its laurels. Within a few years Montana has produced a few horses which have always been a credit to the territory, among the produced a few horses which have always been a credit to the territory, among the list of which may be mentioned Montana Regent, Vice Regent and Doubt. The latter broke the world's record for half mile heats at Oakland last summer. Mr. Flannery says he has seventy-five full blooded horses on his farm. He has a full brother and sister of Little Turf, and while he considers the latter the speediest a full brother and sister of Little Turf, and while he considers the latter the speediest horse, for any distance, produced in Montana, he thinks the two he has left are even speedier. Mr. Flannery is a great lover of horses, but says his other business matters will keep him from entering any of his stock on the turf this year. Besides these he pays a good deal of attention to farming and during the past season raised 425. The following letter was read, which explains itself:
